Dear comrades:

Our comradely exchange of opinions on problems of the present-day international situation took place in an atmosphere of sincerity, trust, and inviolability of the bonds of friendship between our parties, the governments of the Soviet Union and revolutionary Cuba, between our peoples.

Allow me to convey through you warm greetings and wishes of success and happiness to your companions-in-arms, to all our Cuban friends.

Remarks at Idlewild

Moscow TASS in English to Europe 0627 GMT 27 November 1962--L

(Text) New York--First Deputy Chairman Mikoyan of the USSR Council of Ministers arrived here on 26 November on his way from Havana. At Idlewild Airport, Mikoyan told journalists that in Havana he met with his old friends, the leaders of revolutionary Cuba, Fidel Castro and his comrades in arms, visited many places, and met with the people. Mikoyan noted the tremendous progress achieved by Cuba in the two and a half years that have passed since his last trip to the country.

I am very pleased with this trip, Mikoyan said. The leaders of the Cuban Government told me that they too are satisfied. The Cubans and their leaders are wonderful people and I would advise you to set up good relations with them. Now that agreement has been reached between the chairman of the USSR Council of Ministers N.S. Khrushchev and President Kennedy, there are favorable conditions for this.

Replying to questions, A.I. Mikoyan said that the Soviet Union supports the five-point program advanced by Cuba because it is just. Ask your own experts in international law and they will confirm the justness of these demands, he said.
